

Katharine, or “Katy”, Crile is a social worker by training currently spending time with her 5 year old twin boys and husband in Brooklyn, NY.

She has varied life and career experiences ranging from her work on television productions such as the ABC television movie “Anne Frank” and the television shows “Law & Order: Criminal Intent” and “Law & Order: Trial by Jury” to working with the JASA Community Guardian program servicing adults mandated by the New York Supreme Court to have a legal guardian.

Katy received her B.A. in Art History from Bard College and her Masters in Social work from the NYU Silver School of Social Work becoming licensed in 2009.

She served for two years on the National Association of Social Workers – New York Chapter’s New Professionals Task Force and was instrumental in putting together a well-attended panel entitled “Behind the Scenes: Job Searching in 2012”.

Throughout many life and career changes, Katy has been an almost 10 year member and participant of Social Workers Advancing the Human-Animal Bond committee and has recently joined the planning committee.

Katy’s twins are currently requesting a cat and a dog as pets!
