

Susan Urban and Elaine Wolff

We are both social workers who have worked in human and animal welfare agencies and since March of 2007, through a grant given to CONNECT, in NYC, have been consultants on a project known as ASAP. ASAP stands for the Alliance for the Safety of Animals and People.

The ASAP is working to raise awareness about The Link between domestic violence and animal abuse. ASAP is exploring ways in which human and animal service professionals can work together to train, raise awareness among service providers, and the larger community, as well as explore the creation of model programming to best serve the needs of women, children, and companion animals in families experiencing domestic violence.
